

ONBOARDING

From kickoff to your first booking

[Practice name] · [Package] · Kickoff [date]

About a week to your first test booking once we have your calendar access and answers. Your booking, routing and texts are set up and tested before they go live.

The plan

Seven working days to Acceptance, then 30 days of close review.

	Step	What happens	When	Who
1	Kickoff	Today: hours, services, what may be booked, urgent wording, alert contacts	Day 1	Us + you
2	Access	You connect your calendar and complete the setup checklist	Days 1–3	You
3	Build	We configure the receptionist, knowledge summary, disclosures and SMS wording	Days 2–5	Us
4	Privacy policy	You publish the updated wording (we supply a draft)	Before go-live	You
5	Test	Five scripted test calls together	Days 5–7	Us + you
6	Acceptance + go-live	Test booking confirmed in your calendar; forwarding switched on	Day 7	You

What we need from you

The setup checklist takes about 30 minutes. No passwords or patient details, please.

1

Your practice

- Name as callers should hear it
- Opening hours incl. lunch and public holidays
- Appointment types with lengths
- What a new patient may book

2

Calls and calendar

- Google Calendar or Cal.com access
- Cover: after hours, overflow, or all calls
- Who can change call forwarding
- Voicemail stays as a fallback

3

Urgent and alerts

- What urgent callers hear after hours
- Alert email address(es)
- Day-to-day contact
- Retention period: 30, 60 or 90 days

Booked, or booking request?

Booked: Google Calendar or Cal.com. Booking request / lead capture: everyone else.

1

Booked: create or choose the calendar

Your existing Google or Cal.com calendar, or a new dedicated booking calendar.

2

Booked: release the slots

Add the times and appointment types the receptionist may offer. Everything else stays yours.

3

Grant access from your account

During kickoff, on your screen. We never ask for a password.

4

Booking request: no calendar at all

We don't book directly into Dentally, Core Practice, D4W or similar (Dentally has an API; possible future direct booking, not built yet): the receptionist takes name, number, reason, preferred time. No reference number. Your desk confirms next business morning.

Dentally publishes a public developer API (developer.dentally.co) — possible future direct booking, not offered today. Rescheduling or cancelling earlier bookings becomes a message.

What your callers will hear

Greeting (we agree the wording today)

"Thanks for calling [Practice]. This call is recorded. You're speaking with an automated assistant. How can I help?"

Urgent or life-threatening words

"If you're having trouble breathing or swallowing, or bleeding that won't stop, please hang up and call triple zero, 000." Then it takes an urgent callback message for your team, with the after-hours wording you choose.

- It books only the appointment types and times you release
- It confirms only when your calendar confirms, and reads back a reference
- It asks before sending a text; every text says Reply STOP to opt out
- No clinical advice, no triage, no fees you haven't published
- Asked for a person: it takes a message (no live transfer)

Your privacy policy: suggested wording

Publish before go-live. You own your policy; please have it checked.

"We use an AI receptionist service, provided by M&U Ventures, to answer some phone calls and to book appointments. Calls to that service are recorded and transcribed. We collect only what we need to book or respond to your enquiry, such as your name, phone number and the appointment you want.

Your call and booking details are processed by our service providers, some of which are located overseas, including in the United States (Retell AI, Twilio and Anthropic) and [other providers]. Booking records are stored in Australia. We keep call recordings and transcripts for [30/60/90] days.

If you agree on the call, we may send you an SMS about your booking. Reply STOP at any time to opt out."

Relevant principles: APP 1 (open and transparent management), APP 5 (notification of collection), APP 8 (cross-border disclosure). This is not legal advice.

Five test calls, then Acceptance

#	Test call	Pass when
1	Book a new-patient check-up	Booking appears in your calendar with the right time and details; reference read back
2	Ask for a time with no free slots	It offers alternatives or takes a message; never claims a booking
3	Say an urgent phrase (e.g. "I can't breathe")	000 line first, then an urgent message and alert
4	Ask for a person	It takes a message; no transfer promised
5	Change your mind about the time	The same-call booking is moved, not duplicated

Acceptance = you confirm calls 1 and 3 in writing. Monthly billing and the minimum term start from that day.

Go-live: you switch on call forwarding

After hours

Calls outside your opening hours go to the receptionist.

All packages

Overflow: busy / no answer

Calls you can't pick up within a few rings go to the receptionist.

All packages

All calls, alongside your team

Every call is answered by the receptionist first.

Professional, Premium

Cover is set for your practice and tested before it goes live. Rollback, any time: switch forwarding off with your phone provider (exact codes in call-forwarding-guide.md) and your phones work exactly as before. Your number is never changed or ported. Keep your voicemail on as a fallback.

The first 30 days, and support after that

First 30 days

- Days 1–14 after go-live: we review flagged calls daily and send you fix notes
- Week 3: setup review; we tune wording, slots and knowledge
- Premium: 30-day hypercare, then weekly call review
- Monthly usage summary: minutes used, remaining, any extra

	Essential	Professional	Premium
Hours	Mon–Fri 9–5	Mon–Fri 9–5	Mon–Fri 9–5
First response	Next business day	Within 4 business hours	Within 2 business hours
Reviews	After 2 weeks	Monthly check-in	Monthly optimisation
Channels	Email, phone	Email, phone	Email, phone, named contact

Sydney time, excluding NSW public holidays. Response targets are targets, not guarantees.

How your bill works

Prices ex GST, + 10% GST (M&U is GST registered). Setup: quoted separately once approved.

	Essential	Professional	Premium
Monthly (in advance)	A$699	A$1,099	A$1,999
Included minutes	400	1,000	1,800
Extra minute (in arrears)	A$0.80	A$0.75	A$0.70
Included SMS / extra	200 / A$0.15	600 / A$0.15	1,200 / A$0.15

- Minutes are counted by the second, added up over the month and rounded up to a whole minute once
- Calls under 5 seconds and our test calls don't count
- Minutes and SMS reset monthly; no rollover
- Your monthly usage summary shows minutes used and remaining
- If your usage is regularly above your included minutes, we'll suggest the package that fits before extra charges build up

Invoice example: Professional, 1,200 billable minutes

- Monthly fee A$1,099.00 + extra minutes $200 \times \text{A$}0.75 = \text{A$}1,249.00$ ex GST
- GST A$124.90 · total A$1,373.90 incl. GST
- No setup line. Transfer minutes are not charged.

Next: your setup checklist and calendar access

- Setup checklist back by: [date]
- Calendar access granted during kickoff
- Privacy policy updated by: [date]
- Test-call session: [date, time]

Usman Khan · M&U Ventures · [business phone] · [email]